SEVEN INCHES OF SNOW ON FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13.

According to the official report of the local weather observer this afternoon seven inches of snow have fallen during the last twenty-four hours.

In an effort to make up for lost time and to discredit the fellow who several weeks ago had the audacity to predict that winter was over, the chief supervisor of climatic and meteorological conditions bundled up a copious supply of snow, sleet and wind and turned the whole bunch loose in the central west. The elements ran rampant and swooped down on southern Indiana and of course Seymour and the vicinity got their share.

The Indianapolis weather bureau explains the present conditions by the action of "high and low" pressures. It seems, however, that the cold weather with snow and sleet started somewhere in the east and after inflicting due punishment on Wall street decided to follow Horace Greeley's advice and "go west." About the same time the eastern storm started on its journey, another that has been roaming around in the Rockies came to the conclusion that it was needed in the east and started out in that direction. The two greeted each other somewhere between Ohio and Illinois and started a championship contest. While this is in progress the railroads are putting their snow plows in service and the railroad dispatchers would not be surprised to learn that some of the wires are being snapped in twain.

The snow started yesterday and continued with more or less persistency during the night. By an early hour this morning the habit had been acquired and the reform may not take place until Saturday, according to daily weather report.

During the forenoon considerable sleet fell but as it was dry it did not cling to the telephone and telegraph wires and only a few lines were out of commission. The linemen fear that there might be a slightly rising temperature with continued snow and sleet which will mean that the wires will become heavily coated with ice. If this occurs more or less trouble is expected as the lines are not heavy enough to support a great weight of ice.

The traction lines north and south were running cars on almost regular schedule today. Some trouble was experienced on account of the slippery rails. The trolley wires were in fairly good condition but the ice made the track so slick that some delays were occasioned.

Practically all of the trains on the steam roads were running behind scheduled time because of the condition of the tracks. At the dispatchers' offices of the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad it was reported that a few wires were down but it was believed that they were not broken by the snow and sleet. On the Illinois division the trains were delayed on account of the heavy snowfall.

West of Flora, Ill., the snow was much deeper than in this vicinity and as it was dry it was drifting on the tracks and the snow plows were in operation during the day. Between this city and Washington and also between Seymour and Cincinnati little trouble was reported from the drifts.

The railroad and traction officials are keeping in constant touch with the progress of the storm so they may be in a position to handle the trains without delay in case the heavy snowfall continues for many hours. Track men were at work on both the I. & L. and I. C. & S. roads during the day sweeping the snow from the rails and clearing the switches of ice and snow which prevented them from working properly.

The telephone service throughout the county is in its usual condition with the exception of a few small lines in the remote districts. Reports received today say that the snow fall over the county is about as heavy as it is in Seymour.

In Seymour the snow storm was the principal subject of conversation on the streets. The sidewalks and especially those constructed of concrete were slippery after they became coated with the sleet and several persons received hard falls but no one was seriously injured. An effort was made to keep the sidewalks in the business district free from snow but they were covered again as rapidly as they were swept.

Several members of the street department were at work opening up the street crossings but the wind soon blew the drifting snow over them again.

According to the report of the Indianapolis weather bureau the snow is not yet over as the storm will continue tonight. The reports say the snow storm may continue Saturday although warmer weather and sunshine is forecasted for tomorrow afternoon.

CHILD SEVERELY BURNED WHEN DRESS CAUGHT FIRE

Margaret, Aged Four, Daughter of Handy Johnson, is in a Critical Condition.

Margaret, the four-year-old daughter of Handy Johnson, a farmer living five miles east of the city, was seriously and perhaps fatally burned Thursday afternoon when her dress caught fire while she was standing close to the kitchen stove. Her little body is covered with deep burns and her face and head were blistered by the flames. She suffers intense agony and her recovery is doubtful. Dr. L. B. Hill, of this city, was called to dress the burns.

The accident occurred while other members of the family were in the kitchen but the child escaped their notice for a minute or so. When she walked to the stove her dress ignited from the hot coals and in a few seconds her little body was enveloped in flames. The flames were extinguished as soon as possible but not until her body was badly burned.

SAFETY COMMITTEE IN SESSION HERE

Important Meeting of Indiana Division of B. & O. Held in Seymour Thursday.

EMPLOYEES HEAR ADDRESSES

Members of General Safety Committee From Baltimore Confer With Committee of This Division.

Employees of the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad were much interested in the safety meeting here held Thursday. The following account was prepared by O. E. Henderson, one of the popular and well known B. & O. conductors.

The General Safety Committee from Baltimore met with the members of the Indiana Division Committee Thursday and one of the best and most interesting meetings in Seymour was held at the Assembly room in the office building. The meeting continued throughout the day and it is to be regretted that every railroad man and his family could not have been present.

During the forenoon a staff meeting was held in the office of Superintendent J. C. Hagerty and at the noon hour the committee went to the New Lynn Hotel where preparations had been made to serve the entire committee. One long table extended almost the entire distance across the dining hall. Thirty-two members were served at this table at one time and to express it in railroad language "There was some eatings where."

Thanks to Mr. Fosgate for this. After dinner an open meeting was held at the assembly room. After a brief but very appropriate address by Superintendent Hagerty he introduced Major Pangborn, General Chairman of the Safety Committee from Baltimore. This talk of the Majors was one of the best ever listened to by a body of railroad men. Following Major Pangborn came E. R. Scoville, who for years was Superintendent on the Illinois and Ohio divisions. Mr. Scoville's talk was on transportation, its dangers and its costs. Then Mr. Campbell gave a very interesting talk to the committee on loss and damage through the improper handling of shipments.

John Hair took up the mechanical part of railroading. Every engineer on the system should have heard this talk. Then Dr. Parlette took up sanitation and told what the company proposes to do to protect the health of its employees, by the proper inspection of unsanitary conditions. Mr. Bond then took up the maintenance of ways department and briefly outlined the men's duty in making necessary repairs to roadway and bridges. This talk was followed by one by Mr. Craig who was an employee of the Erie road for fifteen years in the capacity of brakeman and conductor and for the past nine years has been an inspector for the Interstate Commerce Commission under Mr. Belnap. The B. & O. company made a request of Mr. Belnap for one of his best men and he recommended Mr. Craig as one of his best inspectors. Mr. Craig was secured by the B. & O. Company to work in conjunction with our General Committee. To hear him talk was surely a treat to the sixty or more present at the meeting. The information and instructions he gave relative to the safety appliances on trains and cars was a matter of vital importance to us all and no doubt the men who were so fortunate as to hear him will profit by his instructions.

The above named gentlemen are all members of the General Safety Committee and they are on the road all the time visiting the several different divisions once a month and meeting the local committees. They will be the Indiana Division committee on the 12th of every month to talk Safety. This movement on the B. & O. has come to stay and the company is spending thousands of dollars for the protection of the traveling public and its employees and the employees of the company should show our willingness to assist in this movement in every way possible, by talking "Safety", preaching "Safety" and practicing what we preach. It is for every railroad man's interest to help further this movement.

ST. VALENTINE DAY WILL BE OBSERVED SATURDAY

Custom of Exchanging Mementoes Originated in England Several Centuries Ago.

St. Valentine's day comes next Saturday and the exchange of pretty missives, pictures and other gifts of similar kinds will be made on this day in observance of an old custom that is almost as general as the observance of Christmas.

The day has no particular religious significance. Such as it has is understood by very few of the people who exchange fancy cards or grotesque cartoons as one way of remembering the day.

The custom arose three or four centuries ago, according to the legend, when old St. Valentine, a kindly anchorite, lived in a very lonely cave some place in England. The hermit's piety became a byword and many persons sought him out in his lonesome retreat to obtain temporal and spiritual guidance.

To each of these guests he gave little pictures, poorly designed and rudely executed, but inexpensive, as mementoes of their visits. Thus the observance of the day is said to have been started.

MORE PUPILS IN H. S. THAN IN FEBRUARY LAST YEAR

Total Enrollment is 395 With 144 in Junior Department and 251
in Senior Section.

Figures compiled by Superintendent Mott relative to the attendance of the high school during the second semester show that there are thirty more pupils in the high school this month than at the same time last year. In the Junior department there are 144 pupils enrolled and in the Senior department 251 students, making a total of 395.

Every department of the city schools report a greater interest this semester than during the first. The outline of work that was planned is being followed and the pupils are manifesting a deeper interest in the courses. The domestic science department is especially popular this term and the classes in sewing and cooking are large.

UXORICIDES WILL BE ELECTROCUTED

Steve Chirka and Harry Rasico, Wife
Murderers, Must Suffer Death
Penalties for Crimes.

DECISION OF GOV. RALSTON

Declares He Cannot Interfere With Judgments of Court by Commuting Sentences.

Indianapolis, Feb. 13.—Governor Ralston yesterday declined to commute the sentences of Steve Chirka and Harry Rasico, wife murderers, who are to be electrocuted at the State Prison one week from today.

"I propose to do what I can to make wife killing an exceedingly dangerous thing," declared the Governor in announcing his decision not to interfere with the judgments of the courts prescribing the death penalty for the two uxoricides.

The Governor's reason for refusing to commute the sentences from death to life imprisonment, and also a review of the crimes, are set out in a letter addressed to Edward J. Fogarty, warden of the State Prison.

"It is my judgment that I would be refusing obedience to the law myself and doing the state and society an injustice if I were to commute the sentences of these men," wrote the Governor.

"I can not close my eyes to the fact that the killing of wives is becoming more and more frequent in the commonwealth whose laws I have sworn to have executed," he continued, and he issues the warning that "the man who is sentenced to death for the killing of his wife will have to make an extremely strong showing to move me to the exercise of executive clemency on his behalf."

The cases of Chirka and Rasico are similar in several ways and the men are said to resemble each other so much that it would be easy to mistake them for brothers. Rasico, whose home was at Vincennes, Ind., killed his wife while she was in Terre Haute on a visit. He also shot a small son. Chirka killed his wife at Indiana Harbor. Chirka was sentenced Sept. 20 last and Rasico's fate was fixed two days later. Chirka is 40 years old and Rasico two years older. Both men were received at the State Prison at about the same time. Chirka bearing the number 5565 and Rasico 5571.

Chirka was first sentenced to die Jan. 9 and Rasico's execution originally was fixed for Jan. 16, but the Governor, by executive order, granted a reprieve in each case until Feb. 20 in order that an investigation of the cases might be continued and also because it was believed that both executions should take place on the same day.

B. & O. S-W. WILL SEND CORRECT TIME OVER THE TELEPHONE

Bells on Boxes at all Stations Will Ring Each Second for Three Minutes Before 11 A. M.

Arrangements are being made on the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad to send the correct time each day to the operators at the block stations and also to the smaller stations by telephone. This new service is possible by the telephone dispatching equipment recently installed on the Indiana division. A clock wound and set by electricity is used in the dispatchers' office and is operated from Washington D. C. Arrangements have been made whereby accurate time is received over the Western Union Company from Washington.

The manner in which the correct time is sent to the other stations is interesting. The same system will be used as when the telegraph instruments were in service. At 10:57 o'clock each morning the bell is sounded briefly each second. This is continued until a few seconds before 11 o'clock when there is a short rest. Promptly at 11 o'clock the bell will again ring designating that hour. When the telegraph instruments were used the seconds were "clicked off" by single taps of the sounder.

The lines were being tested between Seymour and Washington this morning and the adjustments made on the phones so that the bell could be heard distinctly. It is thought that the new method of sending the correct time will be in operation in a few days.

LOUISVILLE MAN HELD AS SUSPECT GIVEN LIBERTY

John W. James Could Not be Identified as the Purse Snatcher
Wanted Here.

The young man giving his name as John William James, of Louisville, who was held by the police as a suspicious character, was sent on his way Thursday night after he had promised that he would not return to the city. He was arrested Wednesday night in the doorway of Kessler's Hardware Store and as his face was covered with blacking the police thought he might be trying to disguise himself. He said he had become intoxicated and that some one had some one had smeared the black over his face as a practical joke.

James had been around Seymour for about three weeks and answered the description of the man who snatched the purse from the hands of Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell several days ago. Mrs. Farrell was unable to positively identify James as the thief as the purse was grabbed from her hand after dark and she could not see his face clearly. It is reported that James left Louisville suddenly between two days because of some trouble there. However, he denied that he was wanted anywhere and as there was no charge against him here the police allowed him his liberty.

Attend the demonstration at the Interstate Public Service Company, Saturday conducted by Miss Kerkhoff and get some new ideas about cooking with gas.

Evenly, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John VanOsdol, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, was some better today.

FROM SHADOW OF GRAVE BOY RETURNS TO WORK

In 1910, the death warrant of Richard Williams, 1231 Broadway avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., was apparently signed. Physicians gave him up for dead. Tuberculosis specialists would not admit him to the hospital, saying he was too far gone.

The family was desperate; the boy evidently could live but a very short time. Someone recommended Nature's Creation. Wonderful results followed, according to the signed statements of Mrs. L. Williams, the mother.

On August 20, 1912, over 2 years later, she wrote: "Richard is just feeling fine. He never notices any trouble at all and hasn't taken any medicine since he took Nature's Creation. He is working every day. He never complains and looks fine, and I believe is entirely well. He is very strong."

On December 16, 1912, Mrs. Williams wrote as follows: "Richard seems to be in perfect health and is working every day. He weighs about 126 pounds. By the way, a man came to see us today that helped carry Richard off the stretcher when the specialists ordered us to move him out of that house on 26th street on account of the smoke from the stove. He had seen Richard only once in the meantime and he just could not get over it, for he was sure Richard must have died long ago, for the day he helped move the boy he was just a little living skeleton and so weak he could hardly move his hand. He said Nature's Creation must surely be a wonderful medicine. He knew about us giving Richard some kind of medicine, but thought the same as others did at that time, that it was useless, and he thought it a miracle that it saved him."

Astonishing reports of complete recovery from tuberculosis and the conditions which lead to it—such as asthma, impure blood, bronchitis, rundown system—come to us every day and all credit is given to Nature's Creation. Our new booklet, containing photos and testimonials from your friends and neighbors, is sent to anyone's time and attention. A copy will be sent to you free if you write at once—TO-DAY, if possible—simply addressing M. L. Hayman, 417 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

CAPTAIN FIRST TO LEAVE SHIP

All Precedents of the Sea Were Shattered.

GOVERNMENT INQUIRY IS ON

Hearing at Philadelphia of the Causes Leading to the Recent Coast Disaster in Which Forty-One Lives Were Lost Brings the Admission From Captain Johnson of the Doomed Vessel That He Got Off in First Boat.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—Captain Edward Johnson of the wrecked steamship Monroe, breaking all precedents of the sea, was in the first boat to leave the sinking vessel, according to his testimony at the government inquiry into the disaster, which caused the loss of forty-one lives off the Virginia capes on the morning of Jan. 30.

Immediately after the collision, said Captain Johnson, he ran through the saloons calling at the top of his voice that the ship was sinking and ordered all passengers to make for the upper deck. He hurried to lifeboat No. 5 and, assisted by the boatswain, a wireless operator and one waiter, got her clear. He took aboard a colored woman passenger and a white man, also a passenger, and rowed away from the ship.

In the meantime, he admitted, he had ignored a big lifeboat, capable of holding twenty-six persons. This was lashed to the deck within fifteen feet of the boat he was helping to launch.

"I had no time to touch the raft," he said. "The first mate cleared lifeboat No. 7 later and also left the ship." Some sailors, however, cut the lashings of the lifeboat passed up by Captain Johnson, and it got away with four persons clinging to it. Only those two boats and that one lifeboat out of eight boats and six lifeboats left the vessel.

Captain Johnson explained that it was impossible to launch boats Nos. 2, 4, 6 and 8, all located on the port or left side, because the steamer was so badly listed.

Captain Johnson surprised those at the trial by declaring that "under the circumstances neither he nor Captain Berry could have avoided the collision."

"I can figure no course of action which, considering the conditions of fog, the shortness of time, and my lack of knowledge of the actual course of the Nantucket, that could have prevented the collision," said Captain Johnson. "Nor do I see how Captain Berry could have done anything to avoid the collision after he realized the proximity of the Monroe."

GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL

Bits of Washington News of Particular Interest to Hoosiers.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Colonel Goethals has reported to the war department that the suspension of John Burke of Indianapolis, purchasing agent of the commissary department of the Panama railroad, was for the purpose of allowing that official opportunity to gather data to show that he came honestly by certain checks known to have been in his possession. Burke has been accused of accepting from firms from which he purchased supplies commissions or presents in cash or checks.

Representative Cox of the Third Indiana district has renewed his fight on the "mileage graft" of members of the congress. If the committee on appropriations acts favorably on Mr. Cox's suggestion, the allowance of 20 cents a mile each way which representatives receive for traveling to and from their homes to Washington at the beginning of each session, will be cut to 5 cents a mile. The committee is considering the advisability of inserting an item in the legislative appropriation bill to carry out Mr. Cox's ideas.

The senate has confirmed the following Indiana postmasters: Angola, Frederick A. Emerson; Attica, Frank W. Macoughtry; Ladoga, Arthur C. Ronk; Monon, William H. Bennett; New Harmony, Charles P. Wolfe; Pendleton, Albert S. Mingle; Rockville, L. B. Humphries; Thorntown, Leonard L. Graves.

R. H. Pennington of Evansville is here protesting against that feature of the McKellar bill which prohibits the keeping of apples in storage more than ninety days. He speaks for Indiana apple men.

Representative Lieb has recommended Curtis Butler, manager of a retail store in Oakland City, for postmaster of that place, to succeed Postmaster Cockrum, whose term expires Feb. 22. Butler is twenty-seven years old. The salary of the office is $1,600 a year.

Serious Riot at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 13.—Several men were seriously injured in an engagement between a crowd of unemployed variously estimated at from 7,000 to 10,000 and 100 patrolmen in front of the employment office of the employers' association. In the police charges clubs were used freely and revolvers were drawn.

Canton, O., Feb. 13.—The United States government is preparing to join forces with the state of Ohio in an effort to wrest millions of dollars in taxes from John D. Rockefeller. L. & N. DEFIES MOVE TO INVESTIGATE IT

a Senate Order.

Washington, Feb. 13.—A complete investigation into the alleged political activity of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Kentucky and other southern states is likely to be undertaken by the senate as the result of a remarkable situation that has developed between officers of that road and the interstate commerce commission. The commission has informed the senate committee on railroads that officials of the Louisville and Nashville, W. Z. Mapother, first vice president, in particular, had refused to furnish information requested by the commission in response to a senate resolution. Mr. Mapother, it was charged, forcibly had ejected two of the commission's examiners from the office of the company and at the same time had issued a challenge and a defiance to the commission.

Members of the commission are thoroughly aroused against Mr. Mapother, and there seems to be every intention of going after him for his treatment of the examiners and his action generally in connection with the investigation.

POPE PRAISES BASEBALL

Wishes Latin Countries Would Adopt
Our National Game.

Rome, Feb. 13.—After granting an audience to the baseball teams who are making a tour of the world, Pope Pius said to Cardinal Bisleti he wished all the Latin countries would adopt the American national game. The party comprised seventy persons. They were presented to the pontiff by Mons. O'Hern, vice rector of the American college in Rome, who explained to Pope Pius the importance of the baseball game in the United States, and the pontiff listened with keen interest. The pope conversed cordially with the visitors and imparted the apostolic blessing on them. In a short speech he praised open-air games to strengthen the body and advised the ball players to follow religious practices to strengthen the soul. The pope wished the players prosperity and a successful season.

After being photographed in the court of San Damasco the players were received by Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state.

HOPE TO BOOST GOOD ROADS CAMPAIGN BY BIG BANQUET

Members of Highway Commissioners' Association of Cook County, Ill., to Dine Tonight.

By United Press.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—To give impetus to the campaign for 325 miles of permanent hard roads in Cook county in five years, the Highway Commissioners' Good Roads' Association will tender a banquet here tonight to well known authorities on road building, who will address the association.

Some of the men scheduled to speak are: Carl Fisher, of Indianapolis; Charles A. Bookwalter, former mayor of Indianapolis; Horatio S. Earle, former state highway commissioner of Michigan; Oliver H. Dunlap, president of the Iowa state supervisors' association.

"The days of ordinary macadam or gravel roads are passed," said Fred Mateers, who is boosting the movement for good roads in Cook county. "Neither one of these types will stand under the automobile traffic of today. We must have a hard surface road of either brick or concrete. The width should be from 16 to 24 feet, and cost from $12,000 to $18,000 per mile. It would be possible to raise the $4,000,000 necessary for the proposed 325 miles of hard surface roads in Cook county by a bond issue of $2,000,000 and securing the rest from county and state appropriations."

HELP WANTED IN SEYMOUR

And Furnished by the Help of Seymour People.

Those who suffer with kidney backache, urinary ills or any little kidney or bladder disorder, want kidney help. Who can better advise than some Seymour resident, who has also suffered, but has had relief. Seymour people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case and there are many others.

John W. Brown, 508 W. Tipton St., Seymour, Ind., says: "About two years ago my kidneys were disordered. The kidney secretions were profuse and painful in passage and at times highly colored. My back also annoyed me and a dull, heavy ache often extended from my loins into my shoulders. I had a tired, languid feeling and as I got no relief from the remedies I tried, I became discouraged. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend. I used them and in a short time was restored to good health. I am grateful for what this remedy has done for me."

MUST SACRIFICE STREET NAMES FOR AUTO HIGHWAY

Citizens at Elkhart Want Lincoln Way But Are Unwilling to Revise Street-Name System.

By United Press.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 13.—How to keep Elkhart on the map without giving anything to map makers is the Chinese puzzle that is tearing this community now. Elkhart wants to be on the Lincoln highway in order to get the automobile traffic, but this city is unwilling, apparently, to sacrifice the names of a few streets in return for the new business.

While other cities are reorganizing their entire street-name system in order to simplify matters, the loss of four names here and the substitution for them of "Lincoln Way" is horrifying. Editors are spilling ink on the first page and prominent citizens are attending mass meetings at which protests are sent up against the proposed sacrifice.

But Elkhart wants the Lincoln Highway, which is proposed to include South Bend and Goshen. It may be that the present street names will have to go. If so, Vista, Franklin, East Jackson and South Main streets will be things of the past. There is a suspicion that the merchants here would rather give a couple of miles south of the town.

Retired Georgia Planter's Advice to Kidney Sufferers.

Regarding the wonderful curative merits of your Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys, I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed six or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much relief that I purchased a one dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains had left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter, 70 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I am in the best of health and feel like a boy. I am always glad to recommend Swamp-Root to those who are in need of it.

Sincerely yours,

THE FORWARD MARCH.

Harmony in the Republican party not so much for the sake of the organization as for better government was the keynote of the address delivered by Former Governor Willson of Kentucky at the Republican love feast at Indianapolis Thursday afternoon. He emphasized the fact that the Republican party stood for constructive government, for policies that benefited the entire country and for progressive legislative reforms. Voters who believe in the principles of that party owe it to their country to stand loyally by these principles. Mr. Willson repeated that memorable appeal made by Abraham Lincoln and said it fitted the hour and the present day needs of the Republican party. In repeating the following appeal he asked that each Republican make it a pledge:

"It is for us, the living, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work, which they who fought here have, thus far, so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task before us; that, from these honored dead, we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we, here, highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain and that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

"I have presented this pledge to you because it fits the day, the hour and the occasion," continued Mr. Willson. "This is not a meeting for dress parade or show or anything but an honest, earnest purpose, organized to free our country from the rule of the Democratic party, which has set the country back ten years and caused us troubles, the end of which no man can yet see. And it is not only an important occasion, but with that pledge holding good, it is a memorable occasion."

In his address the speaker gave some good, wholesome advice regarding the program which must be followed by the new and stronger Republican party.

To Quote:
"We shall get together," he said, "without treaties or surrenders under the leadership of men to whom the people look naturally as leaders, whenever we quit putting our tempers above our judgments; whenever we realize that the men in both branches of the Republican hosts, who were not office holders, office seekers, nor referees, were loyal and faithful to conscience and honor and are still loyal and faithful to their country, its government and the principles for which they have always stood."

"We shall unite when we send to the rear the self-seekers, small men with swelled heads on both sides, and a practical people shall follow the lead of those who drop abuse and factional politics and attend to business. "And when we unite we shall realize that we who were friends are friends still, and that as Mr. Watterson said once: 'Sometimes the best way to know a real man is to have some fun with him.' We have had the fight. No one can say it was not the real thing, or that either side was not game."

"It is settled. The protest was effective and the lesson can not be forgotten. There is nothing left for real men, game men, to fight over. The common danger and common necessity command a union of all who wish to turn the Democrats out and return to protection, to unite the seven million Republicans under leaders fairly chosen by the majority, without fear and without reproach."

Bad Word For City Prisoners.
Huntington, Ind., Feb. 13.—City Judge Rosebrough has announced that all city jail prisoners hereafter will be sentenced to work in the streets. In the past those convicted in the city courts have been sent to jail to lay out fines.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

TEACHERS GIVE BANQUET.

Superintendent and Mrs. Thomas A. Mott were honor guests Thursday evening at a handsomely appointed dinner party which was arranged by the teachers of the city schools. The banquet, consisting of several courses, was served at 7 o'clock in the German Room at the high school building and covers were laid for the teachers, their wives, the members of the board of trustees and their wives.

The room selected for the banquet was attractively decorated with Valentine emblems and with potted plants. At each place was a lighted candle, the mellow glow of which gave the table a beautiful appearance. The floral center piece consisted of potted plants artistically arranged.

The banquet was prepared by the domestic science department of the high school and was in charge of Miss Frances Tebbis, the domestic science teacher. The members of that department served. After the last course Miss Andrews, principal of the high school, upon behalf of the teachers presented Superintendent and Mrs. Mott with a handsome picture, a Hoosier scene, painted by Henshaw. Superintendent Mott expressed his appreciation of the gift and the good will that prompted it with appropriate remarks. Dr. W. M. Casey and B. F. Schneck, members of the board of trustees, made short talks. During the evening Miss Frieda Aufderheide rendered a beautiful violin solo which was much enjoyed.

AUCTION BRIDGE.

One of the prettiest afternoon parties of the winter season was given yesterday at the home of Mrs. Nathan Kaufman on West Second street when a large company was entertained at auction bridge. The hostesses were Mrs. Kaufman and Mrs. Nathan Speier.

The decorations of pink and white carried out the Valentine idea and the house was very attractive. Many flowers and potted plants were used in the decorations. About the room hearts and cupids were also used in the artistic decorations. The color scheme was carried out in the two course luncheon. The Misses Lora Reynolds, Luella Toms, Frances Switzer, Hattie Roeger and Helen Galbraith assisted in serving.

VALENTINE SOCIAL.

The members of the Epworth League, of the First M. E. church gave a Valentine social Thursday evening in the church parlors and it was an enjoyable affair.

The League tries to have something special for the entertainment of the members once a month and it has been the means of keeping up the interest of the young people.

EUCHE CLUB.

Miss Emma Ortstadt entertained the members of her Euchre Club, Thursday evening at her home on Sixth street with a Valentine party. The evening was pleasantly spent. Refreshments were served.

VALENTINE PARTY.

The members of the Senior Class of the Shields High School gave a Valentine party at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the gymnasium. Refreshments were served and a program of games was enjoyed.

HARGROVE TAKES CHANGE OF VENUE FROM MAYOR ROSS

Special Judge Has Not Been Appointed and Date of Trial Has Not Been Fixed.

The trial of the case of the State of Indiana against J. T. Hargrove was not held today and the date will be determined later. The defendant is charged with running a gaming house and with gaming. The affidavit against him was sworn out in the police court Thursday by Mrs. James Allegro who alleges that she saw four men playing cards in Hargrove's shoe store on Indianapolis Avenue. One of the men, she told the police, was her husband for whom she was looking when she made the discovery.

Hargrove has engaged Seba A. Barnes to defend him. The defense has asked for a change of venue from Mayor Ross but the trial judge has not been chosen. Under the law the prosecuting attorney and the defendant may decide upon a trial judge in case a change of venue is taken but if they are unable to agree upon any judge he will be appointed by Mayor Ross. The case will likely be tried before a jury. Hargrove declares that he has permitted no gambling at his place and says he is innocent of the charge preferred against him.

WATER BOAT TAKES PLACE OF THE OLD WATER WAGON

Washington, D. C. Drunks Are Sent to New Work House on The River.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 13.—"And may there be no moaning of the bar when I put out to sea," is the Tennysonian refrain hummed daily by Washington's inebriates who are wont to be replaced, since the "water boat" replaced the "water wagon" in the National capital. The "water boat" is not mythical. It is a real boat out on the water, where the "habitual souses" are sent to get the liquor out of their systems.

Only the "five-day-boys" can get aboard the boat—that is, the ones who get a sentence of only five days or less. Those who get longer sentences are still sent down the Potomac to the Washington work-house farm, at Ocoquan, Va. The water boat is anchored off the wharves in the busiest section of Washington's riverfront. It is built just like a millionaire's house-boat, but very differently fitted up. Life aboard also is quite different from life aboard a houseboat.

CASTILLO IS STILL ALIVE

This Is the Belief of Cowboys Who Start Out to Take Him.

Madera, Chihuahua, Feb. 13.—American cowboys from Babicora ranch, owned by William R. Hearst, have taken the trail of Castillo's bandits. Pancho Villa has given his consent to the request made by the cowboys that they be allowed to take the field against Castillo. There are about thirty cowboys in the party, including the Mexican vaqueros. All are armed with high-powered rifles and equipped with enough provisions to last them for a long, hard man hunt. Villa has offered them a substantial reward if they capture Castillo, dead or alive. The Hearst ranch boys are familiar with the country in which Castillo has been creating terror for many months. On two or three occasions they have driven the outlaws from the Babicora ranch after battles. The mountain trails and hiding places of the band are known to the cowboys.

No further word of the reported capture and execution of Castillo and six followers, who were responsible for the Cumbre tunnel tragedy, in which fifty-one passengers lost their lives, has been received in Juarez. Villa said he had heard that Castillo and six men were executed near Chocolate Pass, northeast of Pearson, by a detachment of rebel cavalry, but this is still unconfirmed.

Rescuers working at Cumbre tunnel have given up hope of recovering the bodies. W. E. McKeenan, mine rescue expert, of the Phelps Dodge mines at Bisbee, Ariz., penetrated 400 feet beyond the passenger train without discovering any bodies, and has decided that all were consumed by the flames.

WOMAN TELLS TALE ON WITNESS STAND

Mrs. Bond Sticks to Her Story About Gore.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 13.—Four of the five principal witnesses in Mrs. Minnie E. Bond's suit for $50,000 damages for alleged assault against United States Senator Thomas P. Gore have been examined and cross-examined. The witnesses for the plaintiff were Mrs. Bond herself, Dr. J. H. Earp, Kirby Fitzpatrick and T. E. Robertson. Each testified that they were in Washington at the time looking after an appointment to a federal position.

Mrs. Bond was subjected to an examination extending for four hours. Apparently at no time did she contradict herself, and her memory did not fail her except in minor details.

Examinations of the witnesses indicated that the attorneys on each side were adhering to their case as outlined before the jury. Mrs. Bond persisted in her story under cross-examination, so that Senator Gore's corps of lawyers finally changed their tactics and began a character attack, only partly allowed by the court. In her testimony the complainant rehearsed the story of the assault, which practically was the same as already published.

When Mrs. Bond was turned over to the defense for cross-examination the defense sought to discredit Mrs. Bond's assertion that she could not escape Senator Gore's embrace when he seized her.

"Isn't it the truth," asked Attorney Prulett, "that the senator said he had to go and arose, and that you arose, too, and seized him and pulled him over onto the bed on top of you and that then Robertson broke in?"

"No, it's not the truth; it's not the truth," almost shouted the witness, shaking her head to emphasize her words. Mrs. Gore, wife of the defendant, sat directly opposite Mrs. Bond throughout the latter's examination and frequently the gaze of the two women met.

FURTHER INVESTIGATION MADE OF NEW DISEASE

Animals in Four Different Parts of State Have Been Killed by Strange Infection.

By United Press. Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—Strange infections that are killing horses and mules in large numbers in four different parts of the state have been checked to some extent, according to Dr. A. F. Nelson, state veterinarian. The four points are neighborhoods about Vincennes, Bicknell, Columbus and Santa Fe near Peru. They are to be placed in two groups. The disease at Vincennes and Bicknell is very similar. The trouble at Columbus and Peru appears to be identical.

Dr. Nelson has visited these points. He has been analyzing the diseased organs in the state laboratories, but up to the present has been unable to discover enough about the diseases to aid in checking all of them. At Vincennes McClure Bros. have lost heavily. There the disease resembles closely spinal meningitis. It is not as certain to result fatally as at Columbus and Peru. The horses affected at Bicknell and Vincennes have a chance to live if given good treatment. They fall, but if they are placed in a sling and carefully nursed they often recover. There probably have been more cases at Vincennes than at any other point. These cases have been noted for about two months while at Columbus and Peru they have existed only about two weeks.

The disease at Columbus and Peru affects the respiratory organs, but Dr. Nelson believes that this is an after result of a disease that very closely resembles ptomaine poisoning. One of the first symptoms is a discharge at the nostrils, which becomes offensive. There are ulcerations in the mouth and nose. There appears no way to save the animals. At the end of three or four days they die. Charles Keel at Jonesville has lost seven horses and mules. None of them had been off his farm for several months. Samuel Ross, Clarence Spurgin and William Mengler, all living near Jonesville and Columbus have lost animals.

Dr. Nelson has tried to infect guinea pigs with the blood of the diseased horses, but without success. For this and other reasons he believes that the two diseases are not infectious. He thinks they are due wholly to some fungus that is on the forage. He said it is possible for the disease to be spread by exchange of forage, but not probably. He believes there is little danger of an epidemic such as affected Kansas when practically the whole state was quarantined.

Coming Attraction.

The theatrogoing public of this city will have the pleasure of seeing an excellent performance on next Tuesday night at the Majestic when the Vance Vrecoe Players present "The Test" the play with "a punch" telling a story that deals with the divorce question in a most interesting manner. It is a play that every woman should see. No play of it's kind possesses a stronger plot or more interesting incidents, the serious element is mingled with comedy forming a combination that never fails to touch a responsive chord. By special request at this performance Miss Arthur will give as an added feature, the court room scene from "Madam X." She has won much favorable comment for her interpretation of this dramatic scene. The Pythian Sisters under whose auspices the performance is given have a treat in store for all who enjoy a play written to please all lovers of refined comedy. Seats for "The Test," go on sale at Carter's Drug Store tomorrow Saturday.

Little Grains of Wheat.

Almost everybody has learned to say, "Little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land." Now somebody ought to make a song about little grains of wheat. One more grain of wheat added to every head of wheat grown in the United States would make 35,000,000 more bushels than were raised this last year, or so it has been estimated. This ought to encourage farmers to improve their wheat.

It takes 10 minutes to grow and store away a bushel of wheat. That sounds surprising, doesn't it? The prevailing belief is that it took all summer! But the amount of time a farmer has to spend on all the wheat he grows, if divided among the whole amount, makes just 10 minutes for each bushel. What with the machinery on the farm and in the flour mills and bakeries it is said, every loaf of bread has meant just half a minute of time from seed to the table.

The Return of Blood Eruptions

No Reason Why Anyone Should Suffer Such Disheartening Experience.

No case of poisoned blood is ever cured until the last destructive germ has been eliminated from the system. And the only remedy that is assimilated in the tissues and stimulates cellular activity to overcome harmful germs is the famous blood purifier, S. S. S.

The skin is but a fine network of tiny blood vessels, and the specific action of S. S. S. is declared by eminent authorities to be a pronounced stimulation of the activity of these cells.

The reason for this is in the peculiar action of S. S. S. which enables the cells in the skin to select from the blood the nutriment it requires for regeneration. Not only this, but if from the presence of some disturbing poison there is a local or general interference of nutrition to cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses and kidney troubles, S. S. S. so directs the local cells that the poison is rejected and eliminated from their presence.

This fact has been demonstrated year in and year out in a wonderful number of cases of severe skin eruption that had seemed to be incurable.

You can obtain S. S. S. at any well stocked drug store. If you insist upon it, but be sure you are not talked into something "just as good."

S. S. S. is prepared by the Swift Specific Co., 215 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

HUERTA'S TROOPS MAKING ADVANCE

Surprising News of Operations In the North.

REFUTES VILLA'S STATEMENTS

Mexican Consul General at El Paso Reports That Huerta Troops Have Defeated a Band of Rebels North of Jimenez and That Instead of Rebels Encompassing Torreon, That City Is Protected by a Strong Garrison.

Vera Cruz, Feb. 13.—An attempt was made to assassinate Lieutenant Arthur B. Cook, flag lieutenant to Admiral Mayo of the United States battleship Connecticut. Lieutenant Cook, although struck by a bullet, was only slightly hurt. His assailant was not seen.

Mexico City, Feb. 13.—A passenger train was attacked by the rebels between the stations of Espinazo and Las Canoas, on the line from Tampico to San Luis Potosi. It is credibly reported here that all the passengers were killed in the attack. The line was torn up by the rebels at that point.

El Paso, Feb. 13.—That the Mexican federal army, instead of sitting tight at Torreon, had advanced as far north from Torreon as Jimenez, 149 miles, is the declaration of Miguel Diebold, consul general for the Huerta government. He has just returned from Mexico City, and declares that he has received a message to the effect that the Huerta troops had defeated a band of rebels north of Jimenez. He says General Velasco, commanding in the vicinity of Torreon, has 12,000 well armed troops, and that Huerta has 25,000 troops in northern Mexico. A new division of the north is being organized at Saltillo, the consul general declared, with General Garcia Hidalgo in command. The division is to take the place of General Salvador Merced's command, now interned at Fort Bliss, following its recent defeat at Ojinaga.

The statement of the consul general is rather startling, following the rebel declarations that Villa's men have reached the very suburbs of Torreon and that they have been driving the federalists into Torreon for days. Villa declares that his rebel army is making Jimenez and Escalon, forty-seven miles nearer than Jimenez to Torreon, as its bases, and that a large advance guard of his army is virtually occupying the suburbs of Torreon with all communication with the federalists cut off.

Supposedly bent upon getting south of Juarez and cutting the railroad to prevent Pancho Villa returning to Chihuahua and to eliminate his base of supplies, 258 armed men in a band of alleged federal recruits escaped across the river at Ysleta with American troopers on their heels. A rumor that twenty-nine of the federalists were captured and executed by Constitutionalists on the Mexican side opposite Ysleta after they had crossed from American soil, is denied by the military authorities in Juarez. Villa said that he was holding ten men prisoners in connection with the raid, one of them being Jose M. Martinez, a relative of Pascual Orozco.

DEMANDS FOR A REPUBLIC

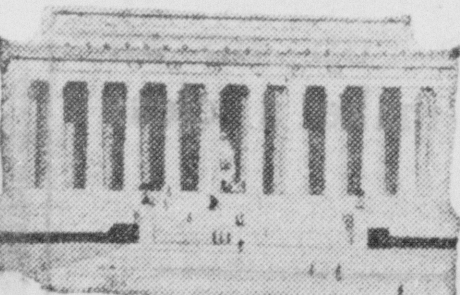

Stockholm Tremendously Agitated Over Political Crisis.

Stockholm, Feb. 13.—The crisis brought on by the clash between King Gustav and the cabinet, which resulted from the king's speech to a deputation of peasants who called on him to urge a big increase in the Swedish armaments, is causing tremendous agitation in this city. It is the one topic of conversation.

Cries of "Long live the king!" are intermingled with cries of "Long live the republic!" The Socialists are taking full advantage of the situation. Notwithstanding the excitement of the people, there is little likelihood of disorders, but the royal palace and the public buildings are guarded by police and detectives.

Lesson VII. February 15.

CHRIST'S HATRED OF SHAMS.
Luke 11:37-54.

Golden Text:—Be not deceived; God is not mocked.—Gal. 6:7.

When we remember that our blessed Lord knew all men and knew what was in man and every thought of man's heart (John ii, 24, 25; Ezek. xi, 5) we wonder how He in His purity and righteousness could live among men as He did and not be utterly discouraged. But He came to save sinners, knowing that every imagination of the thoughts of man's heart is only evil continually and that every man at his best state is altogether vanity and that all man's righteousness is only filthy rags (Gen. vi, 5; Ps. xxxix).

As to these Pharisees, if we note what He says of them in Matt. xxiii as well as in our lesson we wonder that He could think of entering one of their homes. If He was only a man, however good, He could not tolerate them, but being God in human form, God manifest in the flesh, He was not willing that even such should perish and would save them if they would let Him. But they, being ignorant of God's righteousness and going about to establish their own righteousness, would not submit themselves unto the righteousness of God (Rom. x, 3). They rejected the counsel of God against themselves and derided Him.

Yet when they invited Him into their homes He went, as in our lesson and in Luke vii, 36, but he was always "the faithful witness" (Rev. iii, 14) testifying to the love of God and the sinfulness of man. The word "Pharisee" means a separated one, but their separation was not from sin unto God, but from all who did not think as they did and were to them common and unclean, as when one of them said, "God, I thank thee that I am not as other men * * * or even as this publican" (Luke xviii, 11).

We may become well acquainted with them by considering our Lord's estimate of them in the "woes" of our lesson and Matt. xxiii and Isa. v. They knew not the love of God, but they did love the praise of men. Their religion was wholly outward, seeking only human approval, utterly regardless of what God thought of them or knew them to be (Matt. xxiii, 5, 28).

Like their ancestors, they regarded not the work of the Lord, neither considered the operation of His hands. They cast away the law of the Lord of hosts and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel (Isa. v, 12, 24).

They honored God with their lips, but their hearts were far from Him, and they made His word of none effect by their traditions (Mark vii, 6, 13; Isa. xxix, 13; Ezek. xxxiii, 31). Their religion was from Cain, who was the human founder of all false religion and who was evidently in the mind of our Lord in the great woe chapter when He spoke of the blood of righteous Abel (Matt. xxiii, 35).

The greatest hindrance to the gospel is not the worldly world, which lieth in the wicked one (1 John v, 19), but the religious people whose religion is all outward, who know not what is to worship God in spirit and in truth, and who think more of what others think of them than of the approval of the Lord Jesus, and who are more sensitive to a reproach against themselves than to a reproach against the name of the Lord. These are the wicked who plot against the just, who watcheth the righteous and seeketh to slay him (Ps. xxxvii, 12, 32), even as these men lay in wait for our Lord, seeking to catch something out of His mouth that they might accuse Him.

The self righteousness of such people could not take them into the kingdom of heaven (Matt. v, 20), but would doom them to the outer darkness, where there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth (Matt. viii, 12).

Never did our Lord turn away or say a severe word to a truly penitent sinner or one honestly seeking the truth, but to those who professed to be what they were not and yet were righteous in their own estimation He was severe. Yet even such, who thought they had need of nothing, He counseled to buy of Him gold tried in the fire and white raiment and eye salve to cause them to see (Rev. iii, 17, 18).

God requires an absolutely perfect righteousness, such as was found only in Jesus Christ, the Lamb of God, without blemish and without spot, with whom the Father was always well pleased, and anything less than this will not suffice. We can never attain to such righteousness by our own efforts, but how glorious is the truth in II Cor. v, 21, "He has made Him who knew nothing of sin to be sin for us, in order that in Him we may become the righteousness of God," or as in I Cor. i, 30, "He has become for us a wisdom which is from God, consisting of righteousness and sanctification and deliverance" (Weymouth's translation).

When once our eyes are opened to see His perfect righteousness and to receive Him then all seems as nothing compared with His excellency, and we glory only in Him (Phil. iii, 8-10). While we continue in the blindness and darkness of our own pride and self will we can see no beauty in Him, being wholly occupied with ourselves and our own doings, and will consequently reject the counsel of God against ourselves (Luke vii, 30).

CHAPTER XIX.

Night.

A quicker breeze was stirring as John Valiant went back along the Red Road. He had waited in the garden at Rosewood till Shirley, aided by Emmaline and with Ranston's anxious face hovering in the background, having performed those gentle offices which a woman's fainting spell requires had come to reassure him and to say good night.

As he threw off his coat in the bedroom he had chosen for his own, he felt the hard corner of the "Lucile" in the pocket, and drawing it out, laid it on the table by the bedside. He seemed to feel again the tingle of his cheek where a curling strand of her coppery hair had sprung against it when her head had bent beside his own to read the marked lines.

When he had undressed he sat an hour in the candle-blaze, a dressing-gown thrown over his shoulders, striving vainly to recreate that evening talk, to remember her every word and look and movement. For a breath her face would flush suddenly before him, like a live thing; then it would mysteriously fade and elude him, though he clenched his hands on the arms of his chair in the fierce mental effort to recall it. Only the intense blue of her eyes, the tawny sweep of her hair—these and the touch of her, the consciousness of her warm and vivid fragrance, remained to wrap all his senses in a mist woven of gold and fire.

Shirley, meanwhile, had sat some time beside her mother's bed, leaning from a white chintz-covered chair, her anxiety only partially allayed by reassurances, now and then stooping to lay her young cheek against the delicate arm in its lacy sleeve or to pass her hand lovingly up and down its outline, noting with a recurrent passion of tenderness the transparency of the skin with its violet veining and the shadows beneath the closed eyes. Emmaline, moving on soft worsted-shod feet about the dim room, at length had whispered.

"You go tuh bald, honey. I stay with Mis' Judith till she go tuh sleep."

"Yes, so, Shirley," said her mother. "Haven't I any privileges at all? Can't I even faint when I feel like it, without calling out the fire-brigade? You'll pamper me to death and heaven knows I don't need it."

"You won't let me telephone for Doctor Southall?"

"Certainly not!"

"And you are sure it was nothing but the roses?"

"Why, what else should it be?" said her mother almost peevishly. "I must really have the arbores thinned out. On heavy nights it's positively overpowering. Go along now, and we'll talk about it tomorrow. I can ring if I want anything."

In her room Shirley undressed thoughtfully. There was between her and her mother a fine tenuous bond of sympathy and feeling as rare, perhaps, as it was lovely. She could not remember when the other had not been a semi-invalid, and her earliest childhood recollections were punctuated with the tap of the little cane. Tonight's sudden indisposition had shocked and disturbed her; to faint at a rush of perfume seemed to suggest a growing weakness that was alarming. Tomorrow, she told herself, she would send Ranston with a wagon-load of the roses to the hospital at Charlottesville.

She slipped on a pink shell-shaded dressing-gown of silky silk with a riot of azaleas scattered in the weave, and then, dragging her chair before the open window, drew aside the light curtain and began to brush her hair. All at once her gaze fell upon the floor, and she shrank backward from a twisting thread-like thing whose bright saffron-yellow glowed sharply against the dark carpet. She saw in an instant, however, that it was nothing more dangerous than a fragment of love-vine from the garden, which had clung to her skirt. She picked up the tiny mass of tendrils and with a slow smile tossed it over her right shoulder through the window. "If it takes root," she said aloud, "my sweetheart loves me." She leaned from the sill to peer down into the misty garden, but could not follow its fall.

Long ago her visitor would have reached Damory Court. She had a vision of him wandering, candle in hand, through the empty echoing rooms, looking at the voiceless portraits on the walls, thinking perhaps of his father, of the fatal duel of which he had never known. She liked the way he had spoken of his father!

As she leaned, out of the stillness there came to her ear a mellow sound. It was the bell of the courthouse in the village. She counted the strokes falling clearly or faintly as the sluggish breeze ebbed or swelled. It was eleven.

She drew back, dropped the curtain to shut out the wan glimmer, and in the darkness crept into the soft bed as if into a hiding-place.

A warm sun and an air mildly mellow. A faint gold-shadowed mist over the valley and a soft lilac haze blending the rounded outlines of the hills. Through the shrubbery at Damory Court a cardinal darted like a crimson shuttle, to rock impudently from a feeing limb, and here and there on the bluish-ivory sky, motionless as a paster wafer, hung a hawk; from time to time one of these wavered and slanted swiftly down, to climb once more in a huge spiral to its high tower of sky.

Perhaps it wondered, as its telescopic eye looked down. That had been its choicest covert, that disheveled tangle where the birds held perpetual carnival, the weasel lurked in the underbrush and the rabbit lined his windfall. Now the wildness was gone. A pergola, glistening white, now upheld the runaway vines, making a sickle-like path from the upper terrace to the lake. In the barn loft the pigeons still quarrelled over their new cotes of fresh pine, and under a clump of locust trees at a little distance from the house, a half-dozen dolls' cabins on stilts stood waiting the honey-storage of the black and gold bees.

There were new denizens, also. These had arrived in a dozen zinc tanks and willow hampers, to the amazement of a sleepy express clerk at the railroad station: two swans now sailed majestically over the lily-ponds of the lake, along its gravel rim and a pair of bronze-colored ducks waddled and preened, and its placid surface rippled and broke to the sluggish backs of goldfish and the flitting fins of red Japanese carp.

The house itself wore another air. Its look of unkemptness had largely vanished. The soft gray tone of age remained, but the bleakness and forlornness were gone; there was about all now a warmth and genial bearing that hinted at mellowed beauty, firelight and cheerful voices within.

Valiant heaved a long sigh of satisfaction as he stood in the sunlight gazing at the results of his labors. He was not now the flippant boulevardier to whom money was the sine qua non of existence. He had learned a sovereign lesson—one gained not through the push and fight of crowds, but in the simple peace of a countryside, untroubled by the clamor of gold and the complex problems of a competitive existence—that he had inherited a need of activity, of achievement that he had been born to do.

"Chum," he said, to the dog rolling on his back in the grass, "what do you think of it all, anyway?" He reached down, seized a hind leg and whirling him around like a teetotum, sent him flying into the bushes, whence Chum launched again upon him, like a catapult. He caught the white shoulders and held him vise-like. "Just about right, eh? But wait till we get those ramblers!"

"And to think," he continued, whimsically releasing him, "that I might have gone on, one of the little-neck-clam crowd I've always trained with, at the same old pace, till the Vermouth-cocktail-Palm-Beach career got a double Nelson on me and the umpire counted me out. At this moment I wouldn't swap this old house and land, and the sunshine and that 'garden' and Uncle Jefferson and Aunt Daph' and the chickens and the birds and all the rest of it, for a mile of Millionaires' Row."

He went into the house and to the library. The breeze through the wide-flung bow-window was fluttering the papers on the desk and the map on the wall was flapping sideways. He went to straighten it, and then saw what he had not noticed before—that it covered something that had been left into the plaster. He swung it aside and made an exclamation.

He was looking at a square, unpromising wall-safe, with a round figured disk of white metal on its face. He knelt before it and tried its knob. After a moment it turned easily. But the resolute steel door would not open, though he tried every combination that came into his mind. "No use," he said disgustedly. "One must have the right numbers."

Then he lifted his fretted frame and smote his grimy hands together. "Confound it!" he said with a short laugh. "Here I am, a bankrupt, with all this outfit—clear to the very finger-bowls—handed to me on a silver tray, and I'm mad as cat because I can't open the first locked thing I find!"

He ran upstairs and donned a rough corduroy jacket and high leather leggings. "We're going to climb the hill today, Chum," he announced, "and no more moccasins need apply."

In the lower hall, however, he suddenly stopped stock-still. "The slip of paper that was in the china dog!" he exclaimed. "What a chump I am not to have thought of it!" He found it in its pigeonhole and, kneeling down before the safe, tried the numbers carefully, first right, then left: 17—28—94—0. The heavy door opened.

"I was right!" he exulted. "It's the plate." He drew it out, piece by piece. Each was bagged in dark-red Canton flannel. He broke the tape of one bag and exposed a great silver pitcher, tarnished purple-blue like a raven's wing—then a tea-service. Each piece, large and small, was marked with the greyhound rampant and the motto. "And to think," he said, "that my great-great-grandfather buried you with his own hands under the stables when Tarleton's raiders swept the valley before the surrender at Yorktown! Only wait till Aunt Daphne gets you polished up, and on the sideboard! You're the one thing the place has needed!"

With the dog for comrade he traversed the garden and plunged across the valley below, humming as he went.

The place was pathless and overgrown with paw-paw bushes and sassafras. Great trees stood so thickly in places as to make a twilight and the sunnier spots were masses of pink laurel, poison-ivy, flaming purple rhododendron and wine-red tendrils of interbraided briars. This was the forest land of whose possibilities he had thought. In the heart of the woods he came upon a great limb that had been wrenched off by storm. The broken wood was of a deep rich brown, shading to black. He broke off his song, snapped a twig and smelled it. Its sharp acrid odor was unmistakable. He suddenly remembered the walnut tree at Rosewood and what Shirley had said: "I know a girl who had two in her yard, and she went to Europe on them."

He looked about him; as far as he could see the trees reared, hardy and perfect, untouched for a generation. He selected one of medium size and pulling a creeper, measured its circumference and gaging this measure with his eye, made a penciled calculation on the back of an envelope. "Great Scott!" he said jubilantly to the dog; "that would cut enough to wainscot the Damory Court library and build twenty sideboards!"

He sat down on a mossed boulder, breathless, his eyes sparkling. He had thought himself almost a beggar, and here in his hand was a small fortune! "Talk about engagement rings!" he muttered. "Why, a dozen of these ought to buy a whole tiara!"

At length he rose and climbed on,

RODMAN WANAMAKER.

He is Financing Attempt to Fly Across the Atlantic.

New York, Feb. 13.—The entry of the Rodman Wanamaker transatlantic flier for the Lord Northcliffe prize of $50,000 for the first flight across the Atlantic ocean in seventy-two hours, has been accepted by the Royal Aero Club of the United Kingdom in a cablegram to the Aero Club of America.

REVOLUTIONISTS GET FORMAL RECOGNITION

Uncle Sam Doesn't Hold Off In Peru's Case.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Secretary of State Bryan has instructed Minister McMillan to confer the recognition of the United States upon the revolutionary government in Peru. This government came into power last week when its present head, Colonel Benavides, led the garrison troops against the national palace, imprisoned President Billinghurst and killed the minister of war and others who opposed the attack.

Minister McMillan will call upon the new government in Peru today and announce his instructions from Secretary Bryan. He probably will be received in audience by President Benavides. Such recognition was sought from the United States by the revolutionary government and the same request also was made to other governments represented diplomatically in Peru. Six other governments already have recognized the new government in Peru. It was thought here that President Wilson's previous declarations of policy in regard to revolution in Latin America required, if the administration was to be consistent and back up its words, that the new government in Peru should not be recognized because of its origin.

Secretary Bryan declined, however, to give any of the reasons which impelled the administration to recognize the government in Peru, where the process of its birth was almost identical with the mode by which General Huerta, who has been refused recognition, became president of Mexico a year ago.

WOLF BORE CHARMED LIFE

Best Shots in Fulton County Round-Up Fail to Score.

Rochester, Ind., Feb. 13.—A wolf hunt conducted at Kewanna, near here, resulted in the starting of one big animal which was chased by dogs for five hours, during which time he fought the hounds for a long time and severely injured several of them. The best shots among the seventy-five men at the hunt could not hit him and the chase ended. Another hunt will be organized soon as the wolves, which are of the gray variety, have been seen.

Held on Thirteen Indictments.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 13.—Nine indictments for embezzlement and four for forgery have been returned against Albert G. Harlin, formerly a wealthy real estate operator of this city. Harlin was reputed to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars, until several months ago, when officials began investigating his affairs. He has been in jail several weeks without bail. The executors of a half dozen estates in the hands of Harlin filed charges before the grand jury.

Hays Heads Republican Committee.

Indianapolis, Feb. 13.—At the meeting of the Republican state committee Will H. Hays of Sullivan was elected state chairman to succeed Fred A. Sims. Mr. Hays has long been chairman of the Second district and had no opposition for the chairmanship. Robert W. Morris of New Albany was selected for the vice presidency. Frank B. Stalnaker of Indianapolis was continued as treasurer. The selection of a secretary was left to Chairman Hays.

The President Again in Bed.

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Wilson is again in bed nursing a cold. All his engagements have been canceled.
